Release Notes – Thank You 1.3 - Overview.

NEW FEATURES

- @-mentions in comments and cards.
- Manager notifications.

@-mentions in comments and cards.

Users can now mention other people directly in thank-you cards or comments using the @ mention feature. When you type “@”, the user search function opens, allowing you to easily select the person you want.

Benefits:

- Targeted communication: Users can address other people directly and involve them in discussions.
- Greater transparency: Mentioned users are displayed as clickable profiles.
- Quick response: Mentioned users receive a notification including a direct link to the relevant comment or thank-you card.
- Intuitive use: Familiar @-mention logic for simple and seamless use.

This allows relevant people to be brought directly into discussions, and comments and cards become clearer to everyone involved more quickly. At the same time, the feature supports targeted communication within the team.

Note

@-mentions are displayed in full on supported platforms. Availability depends on the technical capabilities of the respective platform.

Manager Notifications.

With this update, you can enable manager notifications for public thank-you cards. If a manager ID is stored in a recipient's profile, the employee's direct manager will be automatically notified as soon as that team member receives a public thank-you card.

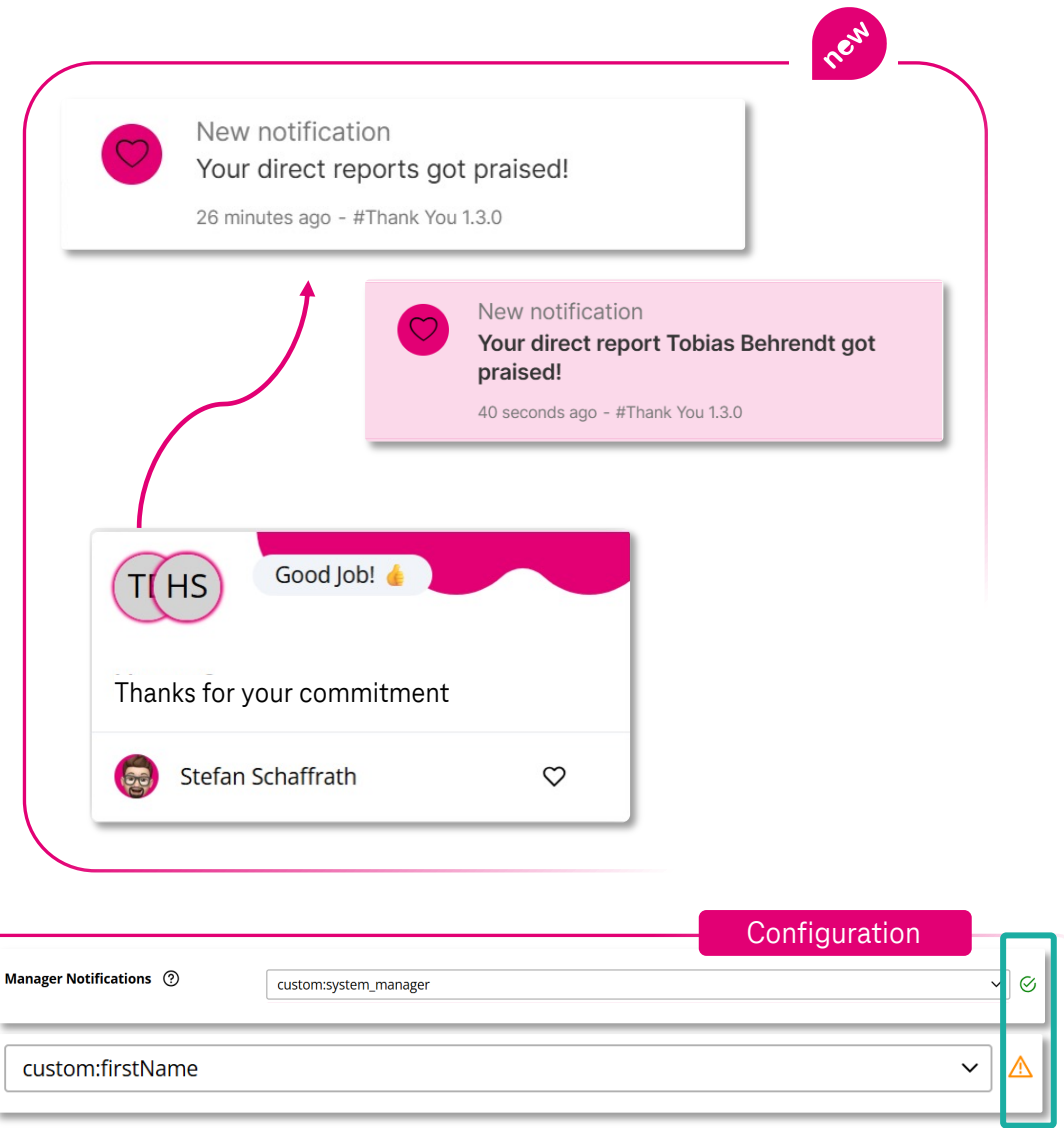

The feature includes:

- New configuration option: 'Manager Notifications'
- Automatic notification to recipients' direct line managers when thank-you cards are sent publicly
- Support for recognising individual employees or several employees at the same time

This makes public recognition more visible and easier for managers to understand.

Note

- Manager notifications only work if the profile field containing the relevant manager has been completed on the platform.
